

Important considerations for an effective energy strategy:

- 1) Work to ensure state energy independence in the sectors where we already have it (such as electricity) and work toward achieving it in other sectors (such as heating and transportation).
- 2) Promote a stable environment for investment in renewables by providing consistent incentives every year.
- 3) Consider higher incentives for equipment (such as PV modules, inverters, etc) manufactured within the state.

E. H. Roy