

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE BANKING DEPARTMENT

EXECUTIVE BRANCH REGULATORY

REVIEW REPORT

March 27, 2017

March 29, 2017

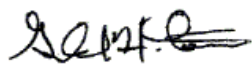

The Honorable Governor Christopher T. Sununu
Office of the Governor
107 North Main Street
State House - Room 208
Concord, NH 03301

Dear Governor Sununu:

It is my pleasure to deliver to you this Executive Branch Regulatory Review Report, as requested by your memo of January 5, 2017.

The New Hampshire Banking Department shares your desire to “maximize the Executive Branch’s service to the people of New Hampshire” via an “efficient, coherent and consistent regulatory framework.” The review you requested guides us closer to achieving that goal so we pledge to enact the plan outlined in this report to update all of our administrative rules. This will compliment and support the recent modernization of all state statutes governing the financial services industries we regulate.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "G. Little", with a horizontal line underneath.

Gerald H. Little
Bank Commissioner

Hon. John Reagan, Chair, JLCAR
Hon. Carole McGuire, Vice Chair, JLCAR

Process

On January 5, 2017 Governor Christopher T. Sununu directed all departments of state government to:

- Pause action on any administrative rulemaking activities with deadlines not mandated by statute,
- Review all rules and regulations under the agency's jurisdiction to determine if they are mandated by law or essential to public health, safety or welfare, and
- Deliver a report on our findings to him and the Executive Council by March 31, 2017.

The New Hampshire Banking Department (NHBD or Department) has jurisdiction over rules found in the New Hampshire Code of Administrative Rules in the "Ban" (for Banking Department) and "Tru" (for Board of Trust Company Incorporation) sections. This report covers a review of those rules. However, this is not the full scope of rules and regulations impacting the entities regulated and examined by the NHBD. Most of those entities must also comply with various federal laws.¹

The first request in the Governor's January 5, 2017 directive was to pause all current rulemaking efforts that do not have a statutorily mandated deadline. The NHBD had no rulemaking projects underway to pause, so the first step we took was to have the NHBD Legal Division generate a spreadsheet of all department rules, identifying if they are currently active or expired and whether or not the rule is mandated by law.

In step two NHBD contacted via e-mail every financial institution chartered by the state and all licensed financial service providers, as well as their trade associations, notified them that the review of state rules applicable to their industry was underway and requested their comments and suggestions.² The NHBD set a deadline of February 28th for submitting comments and received several thoughtful replies.

In step three we reviewed those comments, added them to the items we had identified during an internal review of department rules, and used the information to generate the attached report.

¹ The state-chartered banks, credit unions, trust companies, family trust companies and many of the licensed lenders New Hampshire regulates are also regulated under applicable U.S. Codes by one or more federal agencies.

Under RSA 383:9-a the NHBD is authorized to conduct joint examinations with federal agencies that also have jurisdiction over state-chartered and state-licensed entities. These joint examinations are generally conducted under written agreements between the NHBD and the federal agency which require us to use federal examination standards and to assure that the regulated entity is complying with federal rules and regulations as well as state statutes. This is an important point in the context of this report because a significant number of the rules and regulations impacting the entities regulated by the Department are established by the federal government and are not under the control of the state and, therefore, not subject to this review.

² A copy of the e-mail sent to all of the 1,037 entities we oversee is Attachment A to this report.

When reviewing Banking Department rules we considered the questions presented to us by the Governor, which are:

- a.) there is a clear need for the regulation that is best addressed by the Agency and not another Agency or governmental body;
- b.) the costs of the regulation do not exceed the regulation's benefits;
- c.) the regulation is the least restrictive or intrusive alternative that will fulfill the need which the regulation addresses;
- d.) the regulation does not unduly burden the State's citizens or businesses, and does not have an unreasonably adverse effect on the State's competitive business environment; and
- e.) the effectiveness of the regulation can be reasonably and periodically measured, and that there is a process in place to accomplish the same.

Public Comments

On January 31, 2017 the NHBD issued via e-mail a request for comments to the 16 banks, 10 credit unions and 26 trust companies chartered by the state and to the 980 licensed financial service providers we regulate. Requests for comment were also sent to five trade associations representing those industries. The outreach effort resulted in eight comment letters.

Comments from Banks

The New Hampshire Bankers Association (NHBA) pointed out that the recodification in 2015 of statutes applying to FDIC-insured depository institutions updated, consolidated and reorganized applicable laws in a manner that necessitated a (not yet conducted) corresponding effort to synchronize department rules with the new modernized and streamlined statutory scheme. Regarding rules that apply to banks, the NHBA recommended that the department retain three rules, update eight of them and repeal fourteen – all due to the recodification.

Comments from Credit Unions

The department received comments from the Cooperative Credit Union Association (CCUA), Granite State Credit Union (GSCU) and Service Credit Union (SCU). All three credit union commenters noted that the recodified statutes allow state-chartered credit unions to exercise powers granted to federally-chartered credit unions by the federal government without first seeking permission of the NHBD. However, Banking Department rules require state-chartered credit unions to notify the commissioner before exercising those federally-granted powers. The credit union industry requested the repeal of state rules requiring them to seek permission to exercise federally granted powers.

All three credit union commenters noted inconsistencies between statute and rules regarding notices to the department when amounts of fidelity bond coverage are reduced, while two of them also commented that differences between department rules and state statute regarding membership requirements for Boards of Directors and Supervisory Committees should be clarified. The NHBD agrees that these concerns should be addressed.

Comments from Mortgage Brokers

We received comments from a pair of licensed mortgage brokers. One pointed out a common industry complaint that mortgage forms are often redundant. Such forms are required by federal laws, rules and regulations and not governed by Banking Department rules.

The second mortgage broker opined that NHBD examinations are too costly, suggesting that mortgage brokers be exempted from regular state examinations. This commenter also asked that, whenever possible, examinations of mortgage brokers be conducted off-site as a cost-saving method for the licensee. Finally, this commenter suggested that the Banking Department be funded by General Fund revenues rather than examination fees since department efforts protect the general public. These are issues for the General Court to consider. However, please note that with the passage of the Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act (the "SAFE Act") by the federal government in 2008, examination of mortgage brokers by state banking officials is mandated by federal law.

Comments from Money Service Businesses

A pair of Money Services Businesses commented that it is expensive to be licensed in all 50 states. Neither of them had questions or comments about New Hampshire Banking Department rules. One volunteered to assist the department in a general review and rewrite of RSA 399-A, the statute applicable to their business. The General Court rewrote and recodified RSA 399-A in 2015.

Findings

Effect of Recodification

In 2015, following a two-year project undertaken by the Banking Department in cooperation with all of the state-chartered financial entities that it regulates, many statutes governing operation of the Department and those entities were recodified. SB 188 of the 2015 session of the General Court modernized and reorganized decades of piecemeal amendments to banking law into a more easily understood and cohesive format. It also renumbered many of the laws under the jurisdiction of the Banking Department. More significantly, it replaced a former regulatory structure that included seven separate types of banks with a single charter option. The net result of the recodification is that sections of rules relevant only to the former charter types became irrelevant and should be repealed. At the same time, many of the rules we do still need now include incorrect statutory references, antiquated terminology, and sometimes lack context in the current financial services environment. Many NHBD rules need to be either amended or repealed, primarily due to the recent recodification effort.

Therefore, Attachment B is a spreadsheet of all current Banking Department rules with notations identifying which ones should be retained and which should be amended, readopted, or repealed.

Implementation

Given the short time frame between the announcement of this rules review project and the delivery date of this report, the low percentage of institutions and licensees that responded to our request for comments, and to facilitate more detailed discussions of the project and communicate department plans to the regulated entities that will be effected by the many rules changes we expect to propose, the department will initiate individual meetings with each of the following industries to solicit additional comment and feedback prior to proposing specific changes to the Joint Legislative Committee on Administrative Rules (JLCAR):

1. Depository institutions (banks and credit unions) regulated under RSAs 383-A and 383-B and 383-E,
2. Trust Companies and Family Trust Companies regulated under RSAs 383-C and 383-D,
3. Licensed mortgage bankers and brokers and servicers regulated under 397-A
4. Licensed small loan lenders, debt adjusters, and money transmitters regulated under RSAs 399-A, 399-B, 399-C, 399-D and 399-G.

We will hold these industry work sessions during the second half of 2017. Following completion of the meetings and before the end of this year we will communicate our recommended actions to JLCAR and work with them to structure a detailed plan for implementing proposed changes to NHBD rules.

January 31, 2017

To: All New Hampshire Banking Department Chartered Institutions & Licensees

Earlier this month Governor Sununu requested that all departments of State government, “review each and every regulation under the Agency’s jurisdiction that is currently proposed or that is published in the New Hampshire Code of Administrative Rules...” to see if they are mandated by law” or ...”essential to the public health, safety or welfare.”

The New Hampshire Banking Department (NHBD) is not currently proposing any new rules, but we do have many of them published in the Code of Administrative Rules so we are in the process of performing the requested rule-by-rule review. We are to determine if:

- a.) There is a clear need for the regulation that is best addressed by the Agency and not another Agency or governmental body;
- b.) The costs of the regulation do not exceed the regulation’s benefits;
- c.) The regulation is the least restrictive or intrusive alternative that will fulfill the need which the regulation addresses
- d.) The regulation does not unduly burden the State’s citizens or businesses, and does not have an unreasonably adverse effect on the State’s competitive business environment; and
- e.) The effectiveness of the regulation can be reasonably and periodically measured, and that there is a process in place to accomplish the same.

The Governor’s request asks us to seek public comment on our rules, which is the goal of this letter. I am asking you to review the New Hampshire Banking Department rules and let us know of any you feel do not meet the five tests outlined above and, if so, why. Please be sure to reference in your written comments which of the five tests you feel the rule fails to meet.

Please note that we are not reviewing Federal rules and regulations. Our project is limited to the state-level rules known as “BANs” in the New Hampshire Code of Administrative Rules. Reference Link to rules may be found here: http://www.gencourt.state.nh.us/rules/state_agencies/ban.html

We are required to submit our completed report to the Governor and Executive Council, Senate President, Speaker of the House and the Chairs and Vice Chairs of the Joint Legislative Committee on Administrative Rules no later than March 31, 2017. That is a short deadline for such a large project.

Bank Commissioner

Given that we intend to consider all replies but will need to do so and still meet the report deadline, we will be accepting written comments only for the entire month of February. Please send them to my attention at the address on this letterhead.

Sincerely,

BAN 1107.01	Amendments to Credit Union Bylaws		Repeal in part and update/maintain paragraph (a).	No. Adopted pursuant to RSA 394-B:3-a which was repealed 2015 N.H. Laws ch. 272:52, XXVII, eff. Oct. 1, 2015.	Yes with regard to paragraph (a) of the rule. The Commissioner has the duty to generally supervise and conduct exams of all New Hampshire chartered credit unions. RSA 383:9, I. RSA 383-E:3-311 requires these entities to submit a notice to the Department when the board of directors amends its bylaws. The Commissioner is required to review the proposed amendment to determine whether it complies with RSA 383-E:3-301. RSA 383-E:3-311. Paragraph (a) of the rule provides a description of what the credit union must submit to the Department. The items required allow the Department to efficiently and cost-effectively review the proposed amendment. The Department did not receive any commentary from New Hampshire chartered credit unions indicating this rule was unduly burdensome or excessively restrictive. The Department measures the effectiveness of this regulation during the course of its regular examination of state-chartered credit unions as set by RSA 383:9-d. Paragraph (a) does require some editorial updating to correspond to the current statutory language. However, substantively the paragraph remains essential.
BAN 1107.02	Expanding the Qualifications for Membership		No but requires update to conform to statutory language.	No. Adopted pursuant to RSA 394-B:6 which was repealed 2015 N.H. Laws ch. 272:52, XXVII, eff. Oct. 1, 2015.	Yes. The Commissioner has the duty to generally supervise and conduct examinations of all New Hampshire chartered credit unions. RSA 383:9, I. As part of the general supervision and examination, the Commissioner must determine, among other things, whether the credit union has violated any provision of law. RSA 383-E:3-301 requires that a credit union's bylaws set forth the conditions of residence, occupation, or association which qualify persons for membership. This rule clarifies those parameters and explains how a credit union is required to notify the Department in the event that it seeks to change the qualifications for membership. The Department did not receive any commentary from New Hampshire chartered credit unions indicating that this rule was unduly burdensome or excessively restrictive. The Department measures the effectiveness of this regulation during the course of its regular examination of state-chartered credit unions as set by RSA 383:9-d. The rule does require some editorial updating to correspond to the current statutory language. However, substantively the paragraph remains essential.

BAN 1802.01	Receipt		No but requires update to modernize language.	"	Yes. The Commissioner has the duty to generally supervise and conduct examinations of all New Hampshire chartered banks, trust companies, family trust companies, and credit unions. RSA 383:9, I. As part of the general supervision and examination, the Commissioner must determine the true financial condition of those entities, their ability to perform their engagements, and whether they have violated any provision of law. Id. The substance of this rule corresponds to a rule promulgated by federal bank regulators to ensure that customers for whom banks effect securities transactions are provided adequate information concerning a transaction and that banks maintain adequate records and controls with respect to securities transactions. However, that rule does not apply to state-chartered trust companies because they are not federally regulated. However, the rule provides essential protection to New Hampshire consumers who interact with those trust companies. The Department did not receive any commentary indicating that this rule was unduly burdensome or unnecessarily restrictive.

Rule #	Title	Summary	Recommend to Repeal?	Mandated by Law?	Essential for Public Health, Safety or Welfare?
					The Department measures the effectiveness of this regulation during the course of its regular examination of state-chartered entities as set by RSA 383:9-d. The rule does require some editorial updating to modernize the language. However, substantively, the paragraph remains essential.
