

Jim Rubens served two terms in the New Hampshire state senate and ran for governor in 1998. He has chaired the platform committees of both the national Independence Party in 1993 and the New Hampshire Republican Party in 2000. He has founded over a dozen businesses. His first book, OverSuccess: Healing the American Obsession with Wealth, Fame, Power, and Perfection was published by Greenleaf Press in 2008.

Rubens consults to the Union of Concerned Scientists on clean energy policy. He is a venture investor and member of the Granite State Angels, and spends about half his time on volunteer work. In an unpaid capacity, he chairs the board of the Granite State Coalition Against Expanded Gambling. He lives in Hanover with his wife and son.