New Hampshire Insurance Department Offers Subject Matter Experts for Media Statements on Recent Storms and Flooding

CONCORD, NH (July 19, 2023) – In light of the recent severe storms and widespread flooding that have affected various parts of New Hampshire, the New Hampshire Insurance Department (NHID) is making its subject matter experts available to provide on-the-record statements to the media. Whether it be questions about filing insurance claims, understanding policy coverages, or seeking guidance on post-disaster recovery, our team can offer valuable insights and information regarding insurance-related matters arising from these natural disasters.

The following subject matter experts from the New Hampshire Insurance Department are available for interviews:

- Keith Nyhan, Consumer Services Director: With his vast expertise in consumer protection and insurance regulations, Mr. Nyhan can provide invaluable information on insurance claims, coverage options, and the rights and responsibilities of policyholders affected by storms and flooding.
- James Fox, Property & Casualty Director: Mr. Fox specializes in property and casualty insurance, making him a reliable source for understanding the intricacies of claims processes, policy coverages, and general insurance issues related to storm and flood damage.
- Deputy Commissioner DJ Bettencourt: Mr. Bettencourt offers a comprehensive understanding of the insurance industry, enabling him to address a wide range of topics related to recent storms and flooding.

The New Hampshire Insurance Department encourages members of the press to contact our experts for on-the-record statements, interviews, or inquiries. To ensure timely responses, please email our Communications unit at communications@ins.nh.gov to promptly coordinate an interview or provide relevant information.
