Governor Hassan Announces Job Training Grants for Eight New Hampshire Companies in July

Matching Grants Will Help Train 446 Workers in New Skills

CONCORD –Building on her efforts to strengthen New Hampshire's workforce and support innovative, job-creating businesses, Governor Maggie Hassan today announced that eight Granite State companies have received job training grants to help train 446 workers in new skills.

The job training grants for July total $162,889, and the companies contributed matching funds to bring the total amount for training workers in new skills to $339,437.

"I'm proud to announce the latest round of job training grants that build on our efforts to provide innovative businesses with the workers they need now to grow and thrive in the Granite State," Governor Hassan said. "By helping thousands of workers foster the skills and innovative thinking needed for success in the 21st economy, the New Hampshire Job Training Fund demonstrates our commitment to strengthening our workforce pipeline. We must build on the progress that we have made by maintaining our commitment to higher education and job training and continuing to work together to help expand middle class opportunity, support innovative businesses and keep New Hampshire's economy moving in the right direction."
