2022 Pretrial, Probation, and Parole Supervision Week-July 17-23

Concord, NH – The New Hampshire Department of Corrections is celebrating 2022 Pretrial, Probation, and Parole Supervision Week July 17-23. The theme: “Restoring Trust, Creating Hope,” highlights how community corrections professionals work to reduce recidivism and keep our communities safe.

“Join me in recognizing our team members that serve New Hampshire in our Division of Field Services,” said New Hampshire Department of Corrections Commissioner Helen Hanks. “They are fully dedicated to our mission and are working daily to engage the men and women under their supervision. Our probation and parole team are an important part of the criminal justice system and I appreciate the difficult work that they do every day.”

Under the Division of Field Services, New Hampshire probation and parole staff supervise people within the community including probation – correctional supervision within the community rather than prison – and parole – a period of conditional, supervised release from prison.

Each day, Division of Field Services professionals conduct demanding, but essential work to help change the trajectory of the lives of individuals under their supervision. These professionals have facilitated significant, positive changes in New Hampshire by providing the appropriate supervision and service to the right person at the right time which enable probationers and parolees a more successful re-entry to the community.

The New Hampshire Department of Corrections recognizes the Division of Field Services team for their dedication, integrity, and hard work in support of continued public safety and restorative justice.
