FUGITIVE OF THE WEEK IN CUSTODY

Concord, NH – The New Hampshire Department of Corrections announces the arrest of former Fugitive of the Week, Jason E. Morgan. Morgan, 50, was wanted on a parole violation, stemming from underlying convictions of Burglary (firearm), Theft by Unauthorized Taking and Receiving Stolen Property.

Morgan was featured as the Department's Fugitive of the Week on May 24, 2023. Following multiple tips and pressure from the public, Morgan turned himself in to the Plymouth Police Department on May 26, 2023.

The New Hampshire Department of Corrections would like to thank the public for their assistance in Morgan's apprehension.

The Fugitive of the Week program was launched by the Department of Corrections in March of this year to encourage public assistance in locating individuals who have absconded from supervision. Each Wednesday, the Department shares information on a specific fugitive through various communications platforms, and with law enforcement through the New Hampshire Information and Analysis Center.
